Bluegill Hooked By Tommy Craggs Catches a Bass

LISTEN, OH LISTEN, ye lad and lass, and hear of the bluegill that caught a bass.

On Thursday evening at Sandy Run, two little boys, Tommy, 8, and Jeff, 6, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Craggs, were sitting on the dock fishing for bluegills with cat-paw worms.

The bluegills were biting and Wayne was keeping quite busy taking them off the hooks of his young fishermen.

Pretty soon Wayne decided he'd do a bit of casting himself, so went to his car a short distance away to get his rod and reel.

About the time he got to the auto little Jeff called out, "Daddy, Tom's got one." And Tommy put his line, with fish attached thereto, back into the water until his father could get there and take it off the hook.

But about that time "Bang!" A bass had hit the bluegill and had it in its big mouth. It got caught, too, and Wayne in a big hurry helped Tommy and the bass that got bit greedily over the five-inch bluegill.

Pulled out of the water, the bass weighed four pounds, was 19 inches long.

Wayne said that the boys didn't get real excited about it all. Tommy was pleased that he had caught such a big fish and Jeff was disappointed that he didn't get one.

But Jeff already has won fishing honors despite his young age. This spring he won a fishing contest held for children at the Otis Carter pond.

URANIUM DRILLING activity has been renewed, the Hardin County Independent reports this week.

Drilling of a test hole on the Rendleman lease began this week with O. B. Wardlow, drilling contractor of Marion, Ky., doing the work. He has been employed by Willis Crider of Marion, Ky., Edward Reason of Pittsburgh, Pa., Slim Rhee of Abilene, Texas, and Ed Steckler of Mt. Vernon, Ill., to drill six holes approximately 200 feet deep.

Charge One-Time Moretti Lieutenant With Killing Wife

CLIFTON, N. J. (UP)—James Cerce, one-time lieutenant of gambler Willie Moretti, will be arraigned today on charges of killing his wanton blonde wife with a .32 calibre revolver.

Cerce, 52, shot and killed his comely wife, Roberts, 40, Friday, and chased her unclothed lover into the streets after he found them in bed together at their fashionable home here, police said.

A few hours later police arrested Cerce in a rooming house in Belmar, N. J. He denied any knowledge of the slaying.

But Mario Moretti, a 39-year-old New York bartender, told police he fled Cerce's house in panic after he fled asleep beside the four-times married Mrs. Cerce and woke up to find himself being beaten by her husband.

Police found Mrs. Cerce's nude body at the foot of the back yard stairs. She had bullet wounds in the throat and both ears. Nearby were five fired cartridges from a .32 calibre pistol.

Moretti said he fled to his automobile and put on an extra pair of trousers he kept there. To get them he had to smash in a window of the car because he had left his car keys in a pocket of the trousers he had left behind.

Chinese Communists Show Cordial Attitude for Ambassador Conference

GENEVA (UP)—Communist China, all smiles, appeared today to be jumping on the Soviet friendship-to-the-West bandwagon with both feet.

It was all cordiality in this Big Four conference city where negotiations begin Monday at the Palais des Nations between the United States and Red China.

And the Chinese Communists lost little time in letting newsmen know they hoped the meeting of ambassadors would lead soon to a meeting between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Red Premier Chou En-lai.

The most surprising demonstration of the new attitude to date was the arrival of Chinese Communist negotiator Wang Ping-Nan, Peiping's ambassador to Communist Poland.

He stepped off a train Friday night in a natty, chalk-striped

Ex-Congressman Richard Vail Dies

CHICAGO (UP)—Former Republican congressman Richard B. Vail, Chicago, will be buried Monday at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

Vail, who represented the 2nd Illinois Congressional District for two terms, died Friday at the age of 59 in Presbyterian Hospital.

He entered the hospital July 19 for treatment of congestion of the lungs and heart.

He was elected to Congress in 1946 and 1950, where he served as a member of the House un-American Activities Committee and the Labor Committee.

He lost in the 1948 and 1954 congressional races to Barrett O'Hara, a Democrat.

Vail was board chairman of the Vail Manufacturing Co., which produces stapling machines and other wire products.

Survivors include his brother, Walter Jr., president of the wire company, and two sisters.

U. S. Cautious To Red Chou's Soft Attitude

Talks Will Open
Monday on Freeing
American Prisoners

WASHINGTON (UP)—U. S. diplomats reacted with cautious optimism today to Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai's softer attitude on freeing American prisoners and easing Far East tensions.

They said Chou's words will be put to the acid test in the U. S.-Red China talks opening Monday at Geneva to negotiate the freedom of 40 American civilians and 11 U. S. airmen.

Despite Chou's statement that the prisoner issue can be "easily settled," U. S. diplomats do not expect clear sailing in the talks.

"But there will be ample opportunity at Geneva to test Chou's words," one informant said.

The State Department had no immediate formal comment on Chou's statement on the prisoner issue, the "liberation of Formosa," and the easing of Cold War tensions. Top department officials wanted to read the complete text of Chou's speech, broadcast by Peiping Radio, before commenting.

U. S. Shows Interest

At first glance, U. S. officials were "interested" in Chou's statement about the "peaceful" liberation of Formosa, Chou said, however, that he would not negotiate with Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese nationalist government and he rejected the idea of "two Chinas."

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles frequently has urged Red China to renounce force in its efforts to obtain Formosa. But this government also has made it equally plain to Chou that any discussion on the future status of Formosa must include Chiang.

U. S. officials have said the question of a Formosa cease fire may come up at next week's Geneva talks if progress is made on the prisoner issue. They have pointed out that it is possible to discuss a cease fire with Red China without including Nationalist China.

They hold to the view that this equally plain to Chou that any discussion on the future status of Formosa must include Chiang.

Others on the program include The Tune Smiths, Lew Childre, Danny Dill and Anny Lou.

Monday morning and afternoon will be entry day for exhibits at the fair, after which entertainment will be resumed.

Galen W. Pike Former Shawnee Supervisor, Dies

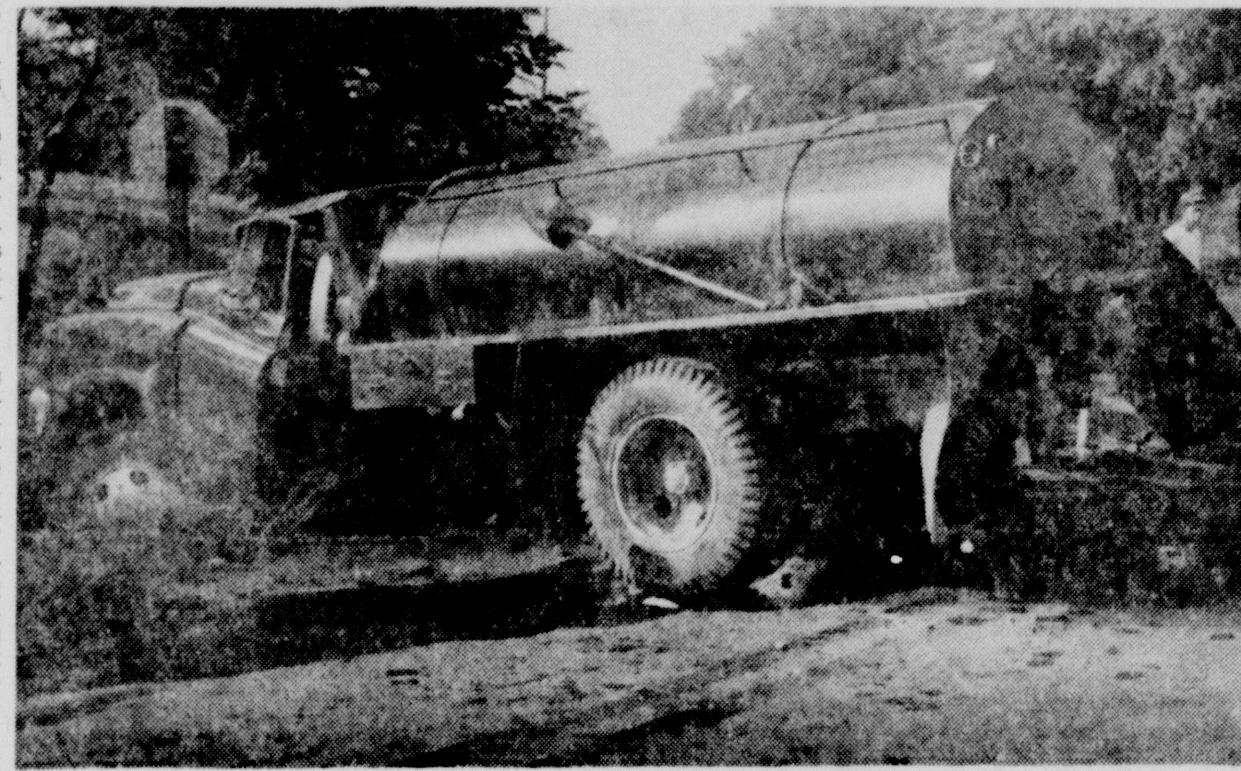

Galen Whittlesey Pike, 53, forest supervisor of the Superior national forest, Duluth, Minn., died Thursday of a cerebral hemorrhage in South Dakota, in 1930. He became a forest supervisor in 1935 on the Mark Twain national forest in Missouri. After two years in Missouri and two years on the Shawnee national forest in Illinois, he spent the next six years in Wisconsin as supervisor of the Nicolet national forest. He was named forest supervisor of the Superior in 1945.

As supervisor of the Superior he turned down many offers of higher positions because of his keen interest in and devotion to the work of the Superior forest and particularly the Quetico-Superior wilderness area.

Galen Pike was an active member of several conservation societies and organizations. He was a senior member and active worker in the Society of American Foresters, the Isaac Walton League, the American Forestry Association, and others.

Surviving him in his immediate family are his wife, Lina; four children, Mrs. J. (Sally) Pruitt, Robert (USA Signal Corps), Michael, and Mary; and two adopted nieces, Sally and Marjorie Robert. The family home is at 4726 Pitt Street, Duluth, Minn.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday, Aug. 1, at the Lakeside Presbyterian church, Duluth. Local Shawnee forest personnel sent a contribution to the Lakeside Presbyterian church building fund in lieu of flowers.

THEY'RE STILL ALIVE, the three persons who were in the smashed-up automobile shown above, although two of the occupants are in serious condition in local hospitals. James W. Fields, 26, Chicago, driver, and Carl Linder, 23, Chicago, a passenger, are in serious condition, but Fields' wife, Ruby, suffered less extensive injuries. Bottom photo shows the oil tank truck, which figured in the crash with the Chicago car and which overturned. It was driven by Robert York, 23, McLeansboro Route 2, also in a serious condition. (A. Weary Congress Hacks Away at Bills Remaining Before Adjournment

WASHINGTON (UP)—A tired, touchy Congress today hacked an uncertain trail toward adjournment. House leaders insisted this won't come before Monday, but many members still were hoping to wind things up late tonight.

Adjournment fever reached epidemic proportions as members surveyed the legislative debris that still blocked the way. With House passage late Friday of a housing bill, the last big item was out of the way.

Hundreds of lesser measures remained on the calendars of both House and Senate, every one important to somebody. But most of these odds and ends were sure to be dumped.

The House was ordered into session at 10:30 a. m. EDT today; the Senate at 11 a. m. The House plunged into debate on a bill to extend the defense production act for another year. A hot fight was expected over efforts to curtail the government's hiring of so-called "dollar-a-year" businessmen who serve the government as advisers without compensation.

Otherwise, matters still to be settled by either House or Senate or both included:

POLIO VACCINE: Economy-minded Rules Committee members cleared the way for a House vote on a bill to buy Salk vaccine—but only for those who can't pay. The Senate has approved its own version without such a restriction.

APPROPRIATIONS: Still awaiting final House and Senate action were two compromise money bills to pay Congress' expenses and boost them a little and to tide over the Atomic Energy Commission, cover military construction costs, and pump up an assortment of agencies about to run out of money.

HOUSING: In the bill passed Friday, the House rejected President Eisenhower's public housing program. The Senate version, passed earlier, authorized at least 572,000 public housing units. A compromise committee was to work on the matter today and indications were that the public housing program would be revived.

MINIMUM WAGE: It was all over but the formalities on boosting minimum wages. The Senate passed a compromise bill Friday raising the legal floor from 75 cents to $1.00 an hour effective March 1, 1956. The House was expected to approve it quickly.

Among other measures on the must list besides an extension of the defense production act were revision of sugar quotas, a 2-billion dollar increase in Commodity Credit Corp., borrowing authority for farm price supports, which the Senate approved Friday night, and an extension of the Small Business Act.

Mr. Walker, who has been principal at Equality for the past five years, said that Witt has a population of 1,200 and that he will be over the unit district, which contains both the elementary and high schools and which has principals for each level.

New County Sup't of Schools In Office Monday

New faces will greet persons who have business in the office of the Saline County Superintendent of schools starting Monday.

Because today is the last day of the term of R. Dale Wilson, who has served as county school superintendent for the past eight years.

In office Monday morning will be his successor, Raymond "Pete" Gardner, who won the office at the polls last November. Unlike other county officers, the four-year term for county superintendent of schools does not end until July 31 following the November election.

Mr. Gardner comes to the court house from Galatia, where he served last year as Galatia high school principal. He plans to retain his residence there until the end of next school term.

A graduate of Eldorado Township high school and Southern Illinois university, Mr. Gardner did his first teaching at Harco school in 1936. He later taught and coached basketball at McLeansboro high school and at Eldorado high.

He has chosen for his assistant county superintendent John Murphy of Eldorado, who was principal of Muddy grade school for 22 years and is being succeeded in September by Ben Brinkley of Harrisburg. Office secretary will be Miss Trula Pemberton of Galatia.

Retiring from the office today along with Superintendent Wilson are Guy Hunter, assistant superintendent, and Eleanor Wilson, secretary.

Mr. Wilson has no announcement yet as to his future plans. Mr. Hunter will become education director of the Egyptian Health department.

Mr. Wilson's first wife divorced him the day he was shot down while flying in the Korean War more than two years ago.

Fischer reported to Maxwell Field recently, after completing leave he received upon returning from China. He plans another leave after the wedding.

The three fliers who were repatriated with Fischer were scheduled to be present at the ceremony in a base chapel. They are Lt. Col. Edwin Heller, Wynnewood, Pa.; Lt. Col. Roland Parks, Omaha, Neb.; and Lt. Lyle Cameron, Lincoln, Neb.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Erickson of Des Moines. She has a 6-year-old daughter and Fischer has a 7-year-old son.

Woman Suffers Minor Injuries Near Ledford

Auto and Truck
Loaded with Crude Oil Crash

Three men were hurt seriously and a woman suffered minor injuries this morning in an auto-truck crash south of Harrisburg on Route 45 at Ledford crossing.

In the Harrisburg hospital are Robert York, 23, of McLeansboro Route 2, driver of the truck, and Carl Linder, 23, of Chicago, a passenger in the auto.

Driver of the auto, James W. Fields, 36, of 4142 West Adams street, Chicago, is in the Lightner hospital. His wife, Ruby, 33, suffered injuries to an arm and leg but was not hospitalized.

Exact extent of the injuries of the men was not immediately determined. However, it was learned that York had a head injury and Fields a leg injury among their numerous injuries.

State Policemen Adolph Sweat of Carrier Mills and Roy A. Lane of Harrisburg were called to investigate the crash. They said that the truck was travelling southward with the Chicago car behind it and the crash occurred when the truck started to make a left turn at Ledford crossing about four miles south of town.

Oil Spilled on Highway

The truck was loaded with crude oil and was en route to a drilling operation, it was stated. The impact of the crash overturned the truck and oil was spilled on the highway, the highway shoulder and into an adjacent ditch.

The auto was wrecked, the impact making an accordion out of the vehicle.

Mrs. Fields, who was the only one of the four injured who was able to talk with officers this morning, said that she, her husband and Linder were en route from Chicago to Paducah, Ky., to visit her husband's brother. Her husband was driving and Linder was in the front seat and she was riding alone in the rear seat, she said. She was vague as to just what happened.

The car, moved in to the Mitchell Shell service station, was spattered with the crude oil. It did not overturn as a result of the crash.

The officers said that although several persons in the area said they heard the noise from the impact, that they had found no witnesses to the crash itself.

Capt. Fischer, Freed Airman, To Marry Coed

MAXWELL AIR FORCE BASE, Ala. (UP)—One of four airmen recently released from a Chinese prison camp today marries the coed he corresponded with while he was a prisoner of the Communists.

Capt. Harold Fischer Jr., began corresponding with Mrs. Mary Jane Peterson, during the Korean War when her husband, an Air Force bombardier and a friend of Fischer's, was killed and Fischer wrote her of her husband's death.

The two kept up their correspondence while Fischer was in the prison camp but never met until this summer when Fischer stopped at Des Moines where she was a coed at Drake University. Fischer was on his way to San Francisco at the time for the United Nations anniversary meeting.

Capt. Fischer's first wife divorced him the day he was shot down while flying in the Korean War more than two years ago.

Fischer reported to Maxwell Field recently, after completing leave he received upon returning from China. He plans another leave after the wedding.

The three fliers who were repatriated with Fischer were scheduled to be present at the ceremony in a base chapel. They are Lt. Col. Edwin Heller, Wynnewood, Pa.; Lt. Col. Roland Parks, Omaha, Neb.; and Lt. Lyle Cameron, Lincoln, Neb.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Erickson of Des Moines. She has a 6-year-old daughter and Fischer has a 7-year-old son.

Supplemental Pasture Has Its Advantages

CHICAGO — Supplemental pasture for midsummer has two advantages, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement committee:

1—It provides sorely needed forage when permanent pastures are down as a result of midsummer drought.

2—It gives your regular pasture
a "vacation." This benefits both the pasture and the livestock.

The committee quotes J. M.
Scholl, Iowa State college agronomist, who says that Sudan grass is one of the best bets for supplemental midsummer pasture. Scholl also recommends Dwarf Essex rape
or a lespedeza-small grain combination for good midsummer grazing.

Sudan grass is highly resistant to a drought and provides succulent pasture, says the committee.
College agronomists throughout the Middle West report that seedings can be made any time up to the middle of June.

"Better stands and higher yields of supplemental pasture come from feeding them a balanced fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphate and potash," says the committee. "Some agronomists recommend using 300
to 500 pounds of fertilizer per acre."
"The fertilized pasture will have a greater cattle carrying capacity and will cut down the cost of each pound of feed."

Sudan grass pasture should not be grazed until it is 18 inches or more high and is a dark green color, says the committee. This, it points out, is a precaution against prussic acid poisoning.

Cut Feed Bill With Pasture

Plenty of good pasture will help to cut the cost of milk production.

J. D. Burke, extension dairy scientist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says, however, that it's a real problem to have enough top-quality pasture in July and August to keep your cows grazing and producing at full capacity.

Most forage growth is past its peak by this time, and pastures
dry up because of high temperatures and lack of rainfall. However, second growth or legume aftermath from first-cutting hay will usually be ready at this time. Sudan grass is excellent for midsummer pasture because it makes its best growth at this time.

Cows will make the best use of summer pasture if you limit them to a small acreage and move them
to fresh feed each day, Burke says.
You can divide your pasture into several lots and rotate the cows from one to another. Or you can use a strip-graze by using a movable electric fence that will limit the herd to the area of the field they will clean up in one day.

Still another way of getting enough pasture feed is by soiling or hauling green chopped hay to the cows. This method works best when the feed supply is too far from the barn to drive the cows to pasture or when you can't get them to the fields because of highways, lack of fences or no water supply.

If you can't give your cows enough high-quality pasture to meet their needs, it's a good idea to feed silage or hay, Burke says.
Nutrients cost less in roughage than in grain, so you'll want to feed as much pasture and harvested forage as you can. But it's also poor economy to cut milk production by not giving the cows enough feed to keep their production up.
Cows on pasture will still need some grain for maximum production, especially the high producers.
As a minimum, feed low-testing breeds a pound of grain to each 3 to 4 pounds of milk. Vary the amount of grain according to the pasture quality and the body condition of the cows.
Burke says a mixture of cereal grains will provide enough protein for cows on good pasture without feeding additional supplement. But they should also have access to plenty of fresh water, salt and a supplementary source of phosphorus, such as steamed bone meal or dicalcium phosphate.

Pigs Get Sunburned

SIU Country Column

By Albert Meyer

Downpours from intermittent summer thunderstorms such as have been rather common this summer give impressive evidence of erosion damage in cultivated fields
on rolling land in southern Illinois.
Some rainstorms have been so heavy that severe sheet erosion has been noticeable on bare fields that seem practically level.

Most farmers in the area have been exposed to enough agricultural preaching on the subject of erosion and the resulting tragic loss of valuable top soil to become aware of the need for practicing soil conservation. Generally it means a change in the system of cultivation that has been in vogue for generations, and the change is coming all too slowly for the good of Southern Illinois farm land.

Usually it is a gradual process by which the conservation measures
of contour farming, strip-cropping, terracing, diversion dams, and grass waterways. Switching to a grass type pasture also may mean learning to operate and manage a different kind of agricultural enterprise than the farmer has been using. To many persons, farming is a year-to-year proposition without taking much thought of a long-term view and planning for a more prosperous business five years from now.

Planting row crops on a contour
helps materially in conserving soil,
organic matter, plant food and water. The practice is carried out far too little in the Southern Illinois region where every method to save soil is vital to maintaining or building fertility.

Soils men at Southern Illinois university claim that soil losses by erosion may be reduced to one half on land where contour farming is practiced rather than planting up and down hill. Contour planting and cultivating isn't as simple as using straight rows. It may mean changing field boundaries and destroying the eye-appealing symmetry of long straight rows of growing crops. However, farming is a business. The soil is an essential component upon which the business depends—the vital factor upon which agriculture rests. Cutting down the rate of depreciation means a better chance of business success. Soil saved means better crops, bigger gross returns, reduced long-term chances of financial loss, an improvement in the investment, and better opportunities for profits. It's worth a try.

This Week at DIXON SPRINGS

(A round-up of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in southern Illinois, prepared by the Station's staff.)

Sheep Sell Well
Forty-three head of sheep sold for an average price of $76 at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station
on Thursday, July 14. Suffolk rams sold for an average of $96, Hampshire rams for $79, and Targhee rams for $42. Sixteen head of sheep went to Kentucky, two to Indiana and the rest to Illinois breeders. About 150 buyers and potential buyers attended the sale.
Ergot in Grass-Seed Heads

Jack Lewis, assistant superintendent at the Dixon Springs Station, reports finding some ergot in the seed heads of grasses. If eaten in sufficient amounts, ergot can cause serious losses in livestock.
It is a hard, horny fungus growth,
dark in color, that may replace some of the seed of grasses. At most all grasses may be infected.
In one form ergot "poisoning" can cause abortions, in another it may restrict blood circulation to such extent that livestock will lose their feet. Jack suggests clipping pastures if only to prevent the development of seed heads and possible
ergot infestation.

Strip-Cropping
Growing alternate strips of hay
or sod crops with row crops on hilly land makes it possible to farm
more intensively without the loss of soil that goes with grain cropping. Planting long slopes entirely to corn, for example, causes heavy soil losses. Water accumulates rapidly and picks up speed going down the slope, carrying greater and greater amounts of soil with it. A sod crop at intervals will break up this flow of water, slow it down and save the soil. We have noticed that strip-cropping is a common practice on most farms in Wisconsin, and it is a practice that would seem to fit hilly land in southern Illinois.

Spraying Barns
Dr. Mansfield and Wallace Anderson did a good turn last week
by spraying some of the barns on Station. House flies and stable flies were getting thick. But after spraying, hardly a fly could be seen. They used malathion mixed at the rate of one gallon to 100 gallons of water with 40 pounds of sugar. Spraying ceilings and walls with this mixture surely does knock the flies.

On Vacation
Bob Webb, Station superintendent, and Randy Boggess, Station forester, are both on vacation. Bob and his family are going to attend
a cattle meeting in South Dakota
and then go on to Yellowstone Park. Randy and his family went the other way to West Virginia.
They both should have some good stories to tell when they get back.

Here are 15 simple rules for farm safety. Make special note of any that you do not follow by habit.
They are the ones you need most
to learn during National Farm Safety Week July 24-30.

1. Keep walks and steps in good repair, well lighted and free from obstructions.
2. Keep ladders repaired and easy to get to in an emergency.
3. Always stop any machine before you unclog, oil or adjust it.
Keep all machine guards and safety devices in place.
4. Don't wear loose, floppy clothes around machinery.
5. Start your tractor smoothly, and turn corners slowly. Stay away from ditch banks and soft ground.
Always hitch to the drawbar.
6. Speak to animals when you approach them. Keep them calm by being calm yourself.
7. Always keep bulls in safe bull pens. Never handle them unless you have them properly restrained.
8. Know and obey all traffic laws.
Never ride with a driver who has had a "drink."
9. Keep your back straight, and lift heavy loads with your leg muscles. Never try to lift anything that is too heavy for you.
10. Use the right tool for the job. Make sure that tools are in good condition. Keep them in a safe, orderly place.
11. Give prompt attention even to minor injuries.

25% Underplanting
In 1956 Will Not
Reduce Wheat Allotments

Wheat growers whose 1956 wheat acreage is as much as 25 percent below their farm wheat acreage allotment will get credit for full allotment acreage in calculating future farm allotments.

In other words, Chairman Paul
B. Whitlock of the Saline County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee explains, if the farm's wheat acreage for next year's harvest is only three-fourths of the farm allotment, the future
wheat acreage allotments established for the farm will be figured as though the full allotment had been planted. Heretofore the reductions of more than 10 percent were considered in calculating future allotments.

Each year's farm allotment, the chairman explains, is based primarily on the farm's wheat acreage for the previous three years. Under the new ruling, even if the wheat acreage is as much as one-fourth less than the farm allotment, future allotments will be calculated as though the full allotment had been harvested.

Preliminary Illinois tests show little advantage for complete hog rations over free-choice rations
when fed in drylot.

"INSURANCE-WISE"

by
BILL GHENT

Today a friend of mine asked me to give him five good reasons why he should buy his insurance from a local agent like Robertson Ghent as distinguished from a direct writer of insurance.

Well, here they are:

1. Your local agent enjoys a relationship of trust and confidence with his clients so that all sorts of problems can be handled with the least possible embarrassment to that client.

2. Your local agent is an independent local business man and is not an employee of an insurance company. Consequently, he is free from company domination and may, without fear, press his client's claims and complaints against an insurance company to the utmost.

3. Your local agent owns the expiration rights to his policies and is thus free to place these policies with any of a number of companies he represents which introduces within his agency a competitive desire on the part of those companies to better serve his policyholders.

4. Your local agent sells a professional service in a highly competitive field which is foreign to the average layman and which is filled with pitfalls for the unwary and the incompetent. Therefore, he continually makes a study of the "fine print" in order that he may best protect your interests.

5. Your local agent recognizes that inevitably a conflict of interests arises between an insurance company and its insured at the time of a loss. He knows that the larger the loss the more serious the conflict. He knows that his function is to represent you, his client, so as to protect your interests when such a conflict arises against an insurance company whose economic resources greatly exceed yours.

If you can imagine that your home has just been destroyed by fire or that you have just had a serious car wreck, you will realize that all these reasons are good ones and that you too have need for a local agent.

Helicopter Brings Injured Woman from Wilderness Area

SHERIDAN, Wyo. (AP)—An Air Force helicopter, its pilot braving a critical high altitude and treacherous downdrafts, flew into an isolated Wyoming mountain wilderness area today and brought out a critically injured woman.

The woman, Mrs. Laura Beckman, 50, of Chicago, was flown to a hospital here for treatment of a possible skull fracture suffered in a fall from a horse while on a pack trip on a remote trail 25 miles from the Eaton Ranch where she and her husband were vacationing.

Miss Shirley Dutton, Don Price Wed in Double Ring Ceremony at Mt. Moriah

Mr. and Mrs. Don Price (Foster Studio Photo)

The Rev. W. E. Dutton read the wedding vows exchanged by his granddaughter, Miss Shirley Dutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Dutton, Harrisburg RFD 4, and Don Price, son of Guy Price, 1909 South Ledford, and Mrs. Winnifred Price, 103 West Logan, in an impressive double ring ceremony held Thursday, July 24, at 3 p. m. at the Mt. Moriah church.

The couple stood before an altar beautifully decorated with candles, holding white tapers, emerald trees and standards of white gladioli.

Mrs. Helen Asbell, organist, accompanied Gail Childers of Bowling Green, Ky., who sang "I Love You Truly," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride wore a ballerina length gown of white taffeta and lace designed with a low scoop neckline, cap sleeves and a tight fitting bodice. Two over skirts of nylon tulle with lace panels covered a bouffant skirt of taffeta. Her fingertip veil of illusion was secured to a divided band of tulle and pique. She carried a bouquet of Fuji mums.

Mrs. W. C. Dallas, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, choosing a gown of orchid embroidered organza with a sweetheart neckline and a full gored skirt. She wore a headband of matching flowers and carried a colonial bouquet of rainbow asters in shades of orchid and deep purple.

The maid of honor was Miss Aline Dutton, also a sister of the bride. She was dressed in a ballerina length dress of yellow embroidered organza designed identically to that of the matron of honor. She wore yellow flowers in her hair and carried a colonial bouquet of rainbow asters with matching streamers.

W. C. Dallas, RFD 1, Harrisburg, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man. Ronnie Williams, Harrisburg, was a groomsman and Joe Small of Galatia served as usher.

Mrs. Dutton chose for her daughter's wedding a blue printed sheer with navy and pink accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception was held immediately following the wedding in the basement of the church where the bridal couple cut a lovely white wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Hostesses were Mrs. Guy Price, and Misses Lovetta McIntosh, Pauline Shea, LaWanda Pierson, Lena Maynar and Joan Hefner.

Following a short wedding trip to Paducah, Ky., the newlyweds are now at home at 217 1/2 South Granger.

Select Winners At Saline County 4-H Dress Revue

The annual Saline County 4-H dress revue was held Friday evening at the First Christian church with sixty-one girls participating. Winners in last night's program are eligible to take part in the State Fair at Springfield in August.

Selected to model their clothing at the State Fair were Kaye Taylor, Sally Smith, Barbara Hancock and Kay Smith. To participate in the clothing activity program from Saline County will be Alice Faye McClusky, Carolyn Wasson and Yvonne Stubbe. Clothing made by Frances Brown and Janie Davis will be entered for construction, but the girls will not model and selected as alternates were Peggy Barker and June Fowler. Janie Davis was not present at last night's show, but garments had previously been judged for construction and her dress was selected as a State Fair entry.

Eighty-four garments were judged Tuesday afternoon for construction and Friday sixty-one of the garments were modeled.

Before making the final decision and announcing the winners seventeen of the girls were called back for additional judging by Mrs. Jean Welborn, Home Adviser from White county who was the judge for the show.

All garments entered in the contest will be exhibited at the Saline County Fair Monday, along with foods and flower arrangements — other phases of 4-H activities.

Mrs. Mary Harper, Saline County Home Adviser, was master of ceremonies for last night's program and Mrs. Cecil Uzzle was pianist as the girls modeled.

Mrs. Grace Crane, formerly of Harrisburg but now of Waterbury, Vermont, is visiting with Mrs. W. A. Plumlee. Friends are invited to call.

Decision to Launch Earth Satellites Based on Years of Military Research

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States decision to launch earth satellites called attention today to large and previously secret strides in the military field.

The White House described the project as "entirely scientific," emphasizing the quest for new knowledge of the universe for everyone's benefit.

But the venture into "regions beyond the earth's atmosphere" is based on years of military research, conducted in deadly competition with Russia.

And purely military devices of previously undisclosed power will be used to thrust the unmanned vehicles into the rings of outer space, 200 to 300 miles from earth.

Four Times Rocket Speed

Until Friday's announcement, only those privy to top national secrets knew that the Defense Department now can launch multi-ton rockets with the gigantic thrust needed to reach a speed of 18,000 miles an hour. That is four times more the top speed of rockets used so far in upper atmosphere research.

Nor was it understood before that science now can devise materials able to withstand temperatures of several thousand degrees, such as will be encountered on the trip in and out of space.

Just as science will expand its knowledge, so will the military services garner vital data needed for intercontinental ballistic missiles of the immediate future and maneuver space ships of a period that may be 25 to 30 years away. Such ships will travel 25,000 miles an hour, free of earthly gravity.

Authorities said the purely military importance of earth satellites and more advanced vehicles can be gauged by imagining this nation's position if Russia got them first.

Nip-and-Tuck Race

That a nip-and-tuck race is on was emphasized anew Friday night when a Moscow dispatch reported Russia also is planning to launch satellites similar to America's.

Military research has been headed that way since World War II ended and both America and Russia learned of advanced German space ship projects, including one that would focus sun's heat on enemy countries and serve as a weapon on launching platform.

Significantly, 100 of Germany's brightest rocket scientists, including Hermann Oberth and Werner von Braun, are working now at the Army's Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala. Von Braun predicts that 1955 will see a space station circling the earth 1,075 miles away.

Other German scientists are sprinkled through other military services and industry. And many are in Russia.

The nation that first ventured into space, authorities said, would achieve a tremendous psychological advantage over any hostile nation. The space stations that ultimately would follow could serve as observation platforms for ceaseless global reconnaissance.

Public Health Nurses Visit Handicapped Children at Little Giant Camp

On Thursday, July 27, all of the public health nurses visited Little Giant camp. This camp is beginning its fourth year of operation for handicapped children. The camp is located in Giant City State park, ten miles south of Carbondale.

Four agencies contribute funds and campers for this camp: 1. Southern Illinois university; 2. University of Illinois; 3. Division of Services for Crippled Children; 4. Southern Illinois Association for the Crippled, Inc.; 4. Egyptian Association for the Mentally Retarded.

Over the summer camping period which starts around July 1 and ends Aug. 15, the public health nurses of the Egyptian Health Department will have sent 17 children to this camp. On their visit yesterday the nurses met and visited with the following children:

Marilyn Hicks, Harrisburg; Dale Miller, Raleigh; Bonnie June Cobb, Ridgway; Adrianna McMurry, Equality; Laura E. Parker, Carmi; Glenda Taylor, Carmi; Marilyn Roe, Stonefort; Michael Sisk, Junction; Mable McMurry, Equality; Sandra Williams, Carmi; John Williams, Carmi; Beth Grubb, Crossville.

Other children who have already attended the first two weeks of camp were Barbara Renshaw, Danny Quillman, Paul Hudgens and Kenneth Ray Shoppell, all of Eldorado, and Connie Beth Pankey of Carrier Mills.

Southern Illinois Association for the Crippled Inc. through their sale of Easter Seals, sends physically handicapped children to this camp from the 30 counties in southern Illinois. These handicapped children are sent primarily for recreation for two weeks. The University of Illinois Division of Services for Crippled Children provides the camp with children who receive speech and hearing therapy along with recreation. These children are there for six weeks.

Southern Illinois university is responsible for the selection of camp personnel which includes a dietitian, a nurse, cooks and counselor.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our son, Billy Pickering, who passed away 3 years ago July 30.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could see

Our dear son as he used to be. Wouldn't it be wonderful to see him smile

And have him back for a little while. We could be wrong for wanting him so,

When the angels want him too, we know.

Could we be wrong for missing him too.

And all the things he used to do? No, we wouldn't disturb his peaceful rest,

For we know above all that God knows best.

So he called him to his home on high.

But, we'll miss our son till the day we die.

Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pickering and sisters, Irma, Brenda and Kathy Jo.

Walt Dropo Leads White Sox To 5-2 Victory; Yanks, Red Sox Win in Dog-Eat-Dog Race

By United Press
Someone's bound to give ground soon in the dog-eat-dog American league pennant scrap but the way big Walt Dropo is manhandling those pitchers, it doesn't figure to be the White Sox.

Dropo helped put the White Sox in first place to begin with and now it looks like he aims to keep them there. He slammed out three hits in a 5-2 victory over the Senators Friday night and his third hit of the game in the ninth inning drove in what turned out to be the deciding run.

Since the All-Star game, the 6-foot, 5-inch Dropo has been the hottest hitter in the circuit with a batting mark of .403 during that stretch.

Dropo's hitting Friday night and Virgil Trucks' six-hit pitching kept the White Sox atop the league standings by two percentage points over the Yankees, who beat the Athletics, 3-2. The Indians staved a game behind with a 7-1 victory over the Orioles while the slizzing Red Sox blanked the Tigers, 5-0, to remain only three games back.

Collins Sparks Yanks
Joe Collins' pinch single with two out in the eighth inning scored Mickey Vernon from third base with the run that won for the Yankees. Lefty Whitey Ford pitched a five-hitter for his 12th triumph and appeared to have won his own game when he homered to put New York ahead 2-1 in the seventh.

But ex-Yankee Enos Slaughter connected for a pinch homer that tied the score again in the eighth. Vic Raschi started for Kansas City and Tom Gorman, another former Yankee was the loser.

Cleveland teed off on two former teammates—Bill Wight and Ted Gray—for 15 hits in humbling Baltimore behind the steady four-hit pitching of Mike Garcia. Larry Doby collected three of the Tribe's hits while Vic Wertz slammed his 11th homer with one on in the seventh.

Everyone in the Red Sox line-up, except Jackie Jensen, hit safely in the victory over the Tigers but even so Jensen tied Al Kaline for the league runs-batted-in leadership at 77. Nixon hurled a four-hitter and received all the margin he needed for his 10th victory when Ted Williams smashed his 17th homer off rookie Jim Bunning in the first inning.

Cincinnati catcher Smokey Burgess blasted three homers, including one with the bases full, added a single and was robbed of another extra base hit during a seven-run rally in the fourth inning. All told, Burgess drove in nine runs while increasing his season home run total to 15. Southpaw Joe Nuxhall eased to his 10th triumph as the Redlegs pounded out 22 hits, including homers by Bob Thurman and Milt Smith.

Bums Edge Cards
The Dodgers came from behind to edge the Cardinals, 5-4, and stay 12 1/2 games ahead of second-place Milwaukee in the National league race.

Brooklyn chased starter Larry Jackson amid a four-run rally in the seventh and after St. Louis tied the score with the help of a pinch single by Manager Harry (The Hat) Walker in the bottom of the seventh, Carl Furillo doubled in the eighth to score Junior Gilliam from first with the key run.

Eddie Mathews' two-run triple in the first inning highlighted a three-run rally which powered the Braves to a 5-2 triumph over the fading Giants. Given that first inning margin, Ray Crone racked up his sixth conquest while southpaw Johnny Antonelli absorbed his 13th defeat.

The Phillies rallied for four runs in the ninth to beat the sinking Cubs, 6-4, after Ernie Banks drove in three runs with his 30th homer and two singles to give Chicago a 4-2 lead going into the final frame.

'I Was No Spiker,' Ty Cobb Says in Reminiscing of His Baseball Days
By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Ty Cobb, playing the game as hard in reminiscence as he ever did on his feet, roared in indignation today that "I never tried to hurt anybody in 24 years of baseball and I got hurt a lot more often than anybody knows."

His eyes flashed like steel spikes and he spoke as if he still was playing ball and was just relaxing between games of a doubleheader. Everything was as though it were happening now—instead of 30 or more years ago.

"I'm Not a Spiker"
"I'm not a spiker," he said. "I run bases hard. But those base lines belong to me—the runner. It was up to the basemen to protect himself when I would slide. I can get hurt too, you know. When that guy goes up in the air to get the ball he's got to come down and he can come down right on top of me. Look at those spike scars on my legs."

He pointed to a long one near his knee.

"Joe Sewell gave me that one. Took four stitches to close it up. But nobody ever remembers about the times old Ty got spiked. Only about the guys who got hurt because I ran into 'em."

Cobb, clad in a bright red bath robe, sat in the air conditioned comfort of his hotel suite and recalled an incident that "hurt me right in here"—and he tapped his heart.

"I had an old friend and he wanted me to meet his son," he recalled. "That was several years ago but I never forgot it. Because when we were introduced the son said—'Oh yes, I remember you, we were known as the spiker.' Somehow I don't want to go down in people's memories like that."

Old-Timer Celebration
Cobb, who is in town for the annual old-timer celebration staged by the New York Yankees, said "These are the things that mean the most to me, the times when we can get together and talk about baseball and to re-live those wonderful games."

"But when they talk about the rough stuff, they forget about some of the things that the good base runners were up against in my time," he said.

"How about that catcher," he shouted, "who is blocking you off at the plate and he throws his mask right in your path. Or somebody leaves a bat in the way. You hit 'em and you have a broken leg. You avoid 'em and you may be out instead of safe."

Palmer Urges Full 35-Day Dove Hunting Season

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Recommendation for a full 35 day dove hunting season in 1955 has been submitted to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service by Glen D. Palmer, director of the Illinois Department of Conservation.

Palmer's recommendation is for season dates of Sept. 1 through Oct. 5, inclusive. Sept. 1 is the earliest opening date which will be granted by the Fish and Wildlife Service, the federal agency controlling regulations on all migratory birds.

Shooting hours for all 35 days, as recommended by Palmer, will be from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. Hunters will be permitted eight doves per day and eight in possession.

Outlook for dove hunters is particularly bright this fall as studies made by conservation department biologists show a very high dove population. Reports by department field observers from throughout the state indicate that doves have had an extremely successful hatch with large numbers of birds being sighted as a result.

Palmer did not recommend an open season on woodcock, rails, or gallinules. Populations of all these species are small in Illinois and are concentrated in only a few areas of the state. Palmer also noted that it is difficult for most hunters to distinguish rail and gallinules from various other shore birds which are given complete protection from hunting.

PLAY SAFE WITH YOUR CHILD

If you wanted your child to learn to swim, would you toss her into the water and say, "Sink or swim, honey?"

"How silly!" you exclaim. "I'd do like any sensible parent—provide her with every safeguard. I'd stay nearby, teaching her, and I'd give her a life preserver to help keep her afloat and give her faith in herself."

And you're so right. With adequate "how-to" and confidence, she will be safe as long as she holds on to her life preserver.

It's the same with her spiritual safety. To meet most of life's problems confidently and without fear she will need a spiritual life preserver.

To keep her afloat, help her acquire those necessary and stabilizing qualities of faith, hope and love found through regular worship at the Church of your choice.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. These are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'The People Left in Judah'

(II Kings 25:10-12; Jeremiah 40:44)
GOLDEN TEXT: "When thou vowest a vow unto God, defer not to pay it." (Ecclesiastes 5:4)

INTRODUCTION: The little word "if" can become the biggest problem in one's life. When an individual, or nation, comes to the forks of the road, this word "if" represents the choices they can make. If they take one road, their future follows one path. If they take the other road, their future will be quite different.

We shall see the word "if" play an important role in this lesson.

Jerusalem has fallen to the Babylonians who have destroyed it. A residue of people were left in the destroyed city. Verse 12 tells us that, "the captain of the guard left of the poorest of the land to be vine-dressers and husbandmen." The strongest and best he carried into Babylon for slaves.

—JEREMIAH RELEASED (Jeremiah 40:1-6)

Mizpah became the capital city after the destruction of Jerusalem. It is about eight miles north of Jerusalem.

When Jerusalem was destroyed, the Prophet, Jeremiah was given a choice concerning his future. His captors knew that he had pronounced the impending doom of Jerusalem. They told him to Babylon either go with them to Babylon where he would receive favorable treatment, or he could remain in Judah. He chose the latter and moved to the city of Mizpah, Judah's new capital city.

—GEDALIAH APPOINTED GOVERNOR (40:7-11)

Gedaliah was the last descendant of David to rule in Judah. He was appointed by Nebuchadnezzar. This was a wise move on the part of Babylon. They could never have routed out all of the different bands of people from the hills of Judah. Therefore, they appointed one of their own people to be governor over them. This pleased the people of Judah. Remember, also, that the only people left were old men and women and the poorest people of the land.

Ishmael, another descendant of David, living across the border, was jealous of Gedaliah. He had not received an appointment from Nebuchadnezzar. Word came that he was going to kill Gedaliah. His attempt to become governor, however, failed, and he fled for his own life.

—JEREMIAH'S MESSAGE (Jeremiah 42:1-43)

A great group of people came to Jeremiah asking him to pray to God for their forgiveness. They promised to serve and obey Him in the future. This would make it appear that Judah was about to experience a great revival. Tragedy of tragedies! They were not sincere. God knew this, and He waited ten days before answering Jeremiah's prayer.

GOD TOLD these people that they were not to go down into Egypt but to stay in the land of Judah. He made them a promise that if they would obey Him that He would build them up again.

Verse 14 tells us their actions! "No, but we will go into the land of Egypt, where we shall see no war, nor hear the sound of a trumpet, nor have hunger of bread; and there will we dwell."

These people wanted peace at any price. They wanted bread and peace. For this we cannot blame them. However, to blatantly disobey God can never bring peace. It can only result in tragedy.

CONCLUSION—THE PROPHET JEREMIAH did not give up. The next thing we find is that he is preaching a message to the Jews down in Egypt. He recalls all of their past history and how God had dealt with them. Even in the midst of his message there is injected the terrible actions of these people. The wives were burning incense to idols in evil temples. The husbands stood by and permitted this idolatry.

One would think that after all that they had suffered because of disobedience to God that these people would come repenting. Such is not the case. The same is true today with literally millions of individuals. Everyone should know that "the wages of sin is death," but these folks just keep right on with their sinful practices. How about you?
